could be read Mr. Enlos, of Tennessee, rose to a question of privilege.

He offered the following resolution: Resolved, That the clerk of the house of representatives be directed to communicate to the senate the fact that the house of representatives condemns the unterances of the honorable P. Kennedy, a representative from the state of Ohio, delivered in the house September 3, reflecting upon the character and integrity of the senate as a body.

Mr. Bingley, of Maine, russed the point of order that this did not present such a question of privilege as would take the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. McKinley) from the floor.

At the suggestion of the speaker Mr. Enlow withdrew his resolution for the Enlor withdrew his resolution for the present, and Mr. McKinley, from the com mittee on rules, reported a resolution for the immediate consideration of the tariff bill in the house. After two hours general debate it shall be in order to move to non-concur in the senate amendments in gross and agree to the committee of conference asked for by the senate and the house shall, without fur-ther delay or other motion, proceed to vote on said motion. The previous ques-tion on the resolution was ordered—yeas 116, nays 71.
Mr. Blount, of Georgia, protested against the resolution.

Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, opposed the resolution and criticised the co rules for reporting it. The majority in caucus had determined not only that the minority should be throttled, but that the plumed knight should be throttled. The resolution was then adopted-yeas 114, mays 72.

Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, gave a very brief statement of senate amendments, but en-tered into no argument as to their propriety or impropriety.

Mr. Flower, of New York, said that the estimated revenue for the year was $450.000,000. This congress had appropriated $450,000,000. What was the need of the tariff bill? Why not leave the present law as it was with an amendment for reciprocity which meant reciprocity and not one of these jumping jacks, the string of which the president could pull at any time?

Mr. Weffare, of Arkanyas, opposed the to answer Mr. Cooper to the effect that the request of the chairman proceeded to answer Mr. Cooper to the effect that He invited the attention of the house to the fact that not fifteen min-utes of the two hours had been devoted to nies of the two hours had been devoted to the senate amendments or to the tariff question at all. The methods of the ma-jority were known to the country. The trouble with members on the other side was that they did not discuss the measure but called names and while they were calling names the majority had gone on and done more public business than had been done by any house of representatives since the formation of the government. Mr. Endose contended that the point was not well taken. It was a question affecting the dignity of the house and the integrity of the senate. The gentleman from Ohio, Mr. Kennedy, had no more right to make a personal attack upon a member of the senate than he (Mr. Endos) had to state the speaker was coround or that the wesdent was a crim.

A VOTE TODAY.

The Senate Will Act Upon the Land Grant Forfeiture.

Washington, Sept. 15.—In the senate several bridge bills were taken from the celendar and passed. The proposition of Mr. Frye to take up the bridge bills was attended by a slightly hitter exchange of courtesies between the senator and Mr. Plumb. The latter said that while the senator from Maine was "off fishing," he (Mr. Plumb) was at work and that now the senator had come back "with his face all browned from his contact with nature and was insisting that nothing should be done at all except according to his own notion."

notion."

Mr. Frye resented Mr. Plumb's remarks and said that in ten months he had been absent exactly fourteen days and had not missed a roll call since the second of June.

"The senator has been absent just fourteen times as much as I have been," was Mr. Plumb's next remark.

"I have not been absent, said Mr. Frye, from as many roll calls as the senator from Kansas."

Chesson Springs. Pa. Sept. 15.—There is every reason to believe that the president is seriously considering the advisability of calling an extra session of congress. It is known that several prominent Republicans have advised such a course with a view to an earlier consideration of the federal election law. Persons who have talked with the president on the subject say that he will certainly reconvene congress if certain pending measures in which he takes great interest are not disposed of at this session. This includes tain pending measures in which he takes great interest are not disposed of at this session. This includes the anti-lottery bill, the supreme court bill and the labor bilts now in the senate and the postal shipping bill now awaiting the action of the house. The president is known to be specially interested in the passage of the ejection bill and would probably feel justified in calling an extra session.

This also proposed to construct in convenience or interruption to the traffic or business of other railroads of the city. It is also proposed to construct in connection with this elevated railway and terminal system, enclosed freight yards at grade and using hydraulic litts for the transfer of the freight cars from the elevated tracks to the enclosed yards on the street level, thus preventing the laying of any more railroad tracks across or upon streets at grade. The plan is to have eight or ten elevated tracks running south from the union station to a point where they diverge, one line to the south and one to the west, each of the divergent lines carrying from four to six elevated tracks. All preliminary plans have been prepared so that the work can begin at an early date and as it is proposed to buy every feet of land the company will occupy, it is the purpose of the company to begin construction as soon as the proper city ordinances are passed, so as to ave the elevated the transcream terminals ready for business before the opening of the world's fair.
